NGO, corporate distribute free booklets of disaster management in suburbs

Suparna Thombare, Dadar

A private company teamed up with a local NGO over the weekend to distribute free disaster management booklets at major junctions in the central suburbs.

Volunteers of Apollo Tyres Ltd and Corporate and Volunteer Organisation Networking for Disaster Management handed out copies of the booklet on Saturday and Sunday at Dadar TT, King's Circle, Mulund checknaka, Vashi checknaka, Chitra theatre, Matunga east, Sion, Shivaji Park, Sena Bhavan, Kurla railway station and Chembur naka.

The booklet comprises comprehensive disaster management and road safety tips and a complete list of emergency numbers. It was launched last week by FR Singh, zonal head of Apollo Tyres.

"The state is working to set up infrastructure to prevent another 26-7 from happening again," he said. "This booklet is our initiative to equip motorists with necessary guidelines and numbers. It will also help citizens become active during search-and-rescue operations."

According to the NGO, over 1.5 lakh booklets were distributed at Sandeep Sharma, an NGO member, said the booklet is Mumbai's first-ever directory that gives comprehensive listing of emergency numbers, besides containing tips on disaster recovery and first-aid guidelines.

"The booklet includes numbers of police stations, traffic police disaster management cells, rescue teams, fire brigade, hospitals and NGOs," he said. SS Shankar, a software professional and Chembur resident, who received a copy of the booklet, said, "I was stuck in Kurla last year during the deluge when my bike refused to start. I felt helpless and had to walk home on the Sion-Trombay Road."

"This booklet will help me understand what to do and who to call should I find myself in a similar emergency," he added.

SWATEE KHER
MUMBAI JULY 9

Why don't the civic authorities do something about the flooding?

Why are we paying taxes?

The government has to do something.

What are we doing for our city?

These are the most common questions asked by any Mumbaiite discussing the usual monsoon woes.

However, two weeks ago employees of Apollo Tyres not only asked these questions, but they also came up with answers. They also formulated a plan and implemented it.

As part of its corporate social responsibility, Apollo Tyres, in collaboration with non-governmental organisation Corporate and Voluntary Organisation Networking For Disaster Management, came out with a disaster management booklet, which includes the telephone numbers of all hospitals, control rooms, police stations, civic controls, railways, blood banks for ready reference.

And for this, they got a pat on the back from Mayor Datta Dahi.

About 40 volunteers and employees of Apollo Tyres are on the streets since Tuesday spreading awareness about necessary steps to be taken in case of emergency through 1.7 lakh booklets.

On Tuesday—the third day of consecutive rains—when he knocked on the window of a car, Nitin Pandey, zonal marketing manager of Apollo Tyres, had to face a rather annoyed woman.

However, he convinced her to keep the booklet as a handy reference in case of emergency.

Incidentally, after three hours, his office received a call from the same woman. She said that she was stuck in her locked car in the floods but managed to save herself after breaking the driver's window—it is the weakest window in any vehicle. And this she learnt from the booklet. "She saved her life as well as the car," Pandey said.

Having covered south Mumbai on Wednesday and Thursday, and north of the city on Friday, the team covered central Mumbai on Saturday.

"It feels good giving pamphlets and spreading awareness in this manner. Otherwise I would have gotten bored at home, waiting for college to begin," said an excited Ashish Jadhav (16), who spent the last three days on the streets of Mumbai distributing booklets.

"We knock on the car windows and when the driver asks why, we give a booklet and also our number if they need more information."

Apollo Tyres teams up with NGO to help citizens in the monsoon

The NGO CVONDM to deal with any emergency during the rains

BY A COMMERCIAL REPORTER

Taking a proactive step to prevent re-occurrence of fatal events and human tragedies Mumbai faced due to wrath of rain gods, Apollo Tyres and CVONDM—a Maharashtra-based NGO, have compiled a comprehensive disaster management booklet, which will be distributed to all Mumbai motorists. The booklet, which will comprise comprehensive disaster and road safety management tips as well as complete list of all emergency numbers, will be distributed free of cost to all motorists, to equip them with proactive steps and numbers, to effectively reach out as and when required and save theirs as well as their fellow motorists' lives.

Launching the booklet, R.R. Singh, Apollo Tyres Ltd. said, "Each one of us had practically had to suffer great loss during the civil and social havoc, which rains created in Mumbai last year. I believe that while state government is taking host of initiatives to set up right civil infrastructure to prevent this tragedy again, this unique initiative by Apollo Tyres and CVONDM is an initiative, to at least reach out to motorists and equipping them with all necessary guidelines and numbers in easy accessibility. This would thus not only help them to prevent themselves, but also become active contributors in joining the rescue efforts, if required, and contribute to the community, effectively and timely."

Urging Mumbaiites to come forward and can be a part of this revolution, Mr. Nitin Pandey, Apollo Tyres Ltd. said, "We believe that this booklet, which has been carefully compiled together by both teams will at least enable the motorists to be more proactive and face any emergencies."

CVONDM's Sandeep Sharma said, "This disaster management booklet, besides containing necessary disaster recovery and first aid guidelines, will be indeed Mumbai's first-ever comprehensive listing of all emergency numbers—including numbers of police stations, traffic police, disaster management cells, rescue teams, fire brigade, hospitals' NGOs etc."

More than 1,50,000 of these booklets will be distributed, from July 5, onwards, by volunteers wearing Apollo Tyres Ltd. T-shirts, at prominent traffic signals, toll/ check nakas, petrol pumps, parking lots and Apollo's distribution network. The endeavour is to reach one and all car owners of Mumbai. The distribution will be carried on for four days.

DISASTER MANAGEMENT HANDBOOK

Created for the benefit of car owners and drivers in Mumbai city, the disaster management handbook is one of the most essential items that every driver must have stored away in his glove box. An initiative of Sandeep Sharma, a social consultant and advisor, the purpose of this handbook is to limit and alleviate the ill effects of any event having repercussions on the normal functioning and safety of the city and its occupants, as well as to ensure rapid recovery from any disruption to normal functioning.

A few safety tips included in the handbook

1) Ensure that you have a copy of the Disaster Management handbook in your glove box at all times

2) A well equipped first aid kit with bandage, pain killer spray, antiseptics, anti-allergic like avil, aspirin, mosquito repellent cream or spray like odomos.

3) Car drivers with diabetes, B.P., asthma or any other disorder should keep a stock of their medicines in the car

4) Carry out pre-monsoon checks of batteries, tyres, electrical wirings, engine, maintenance of your car including wipers and top up the fuel of your car at least during the monsoon.

The handbook also includes a list of helpline numbers. Traffic Control - 24937746

A Medical Contingency Project -

A plan was submitted to Commissioner of Police, Mumbai on 13th September, 2007. Govt instant consent and whole hearted support. This was first time ever in the city of Mumbai during Ganeshotsav the biggest festival of the city came a single Medical Contingency Project, this is another avenue of project PRAYOG, a project which Trains, Deploys and Felicitate volunteers for Ganeshotsav Bandobast. Proposal of the Medical Contingency Plan and Project completions report is prepared every year.

The City of Mumbai was divided into 12 Zones, each zone had a Mobile ICCU on wheels and other ambulances covering all 27 immersion spots, they were all wired through a Walkie Talkie Network. Doctors and Medical staffs were available till the bandobast (arrangements) were called off. A well equipped control room was setup with Global Positioning System (GPS) and Realtime Tracking System (RTS) also having access to the Ambulances through Wireless Radio Tracking. This is an annual event.

This organization was born on 25th May, 2006 at The Mayor's Chamber, Mumbai. The purpose of this organization is to limit and alleviate the ill effects of any event having repercussions on the normal functioning & safety of the city and its occupants, as well as to ensure rapid recovery from any disruption to normal functioning. CVONDM has been compiling and publishing a Disaster Management booklet consisting of Safety Tips and all important telephone numbers apart from other Volunteer Organization coordination activity. In 2006, 1,90,000 brochures distributed to four wheel users and in the year 2007, 3,50,000 car users received this booklet, the booklets were also sent to all NGO's so that they can be prepared for any disaster. In the year 2008 and 2009, 3,50,000 booklets with the latest helpline numbers were distributed amongst Mubaikars. In the year 2010 for the 5th consecutive year 3,50,000 booklets for Mumbai, 1,00,000 for Navi Mumbai and 1,00,000 for Thane were distributed with the latest information.

Medical Contingency Programme for Kumbh -

Kumbh, it is the largest congregation of Hindus in the world. Kumbh takes place in every four year. More than a billion people take a dip in the holy waters of the river Ganga or its subsidiaries. From 16th August till 25th September 2003, this medical contingency was equipped to avert any medical emergency caused due to sheer number of devotees, climatic conditions, etc. The only Intensive Cardiac Care Unit formed the core of the Contingency Programme. 20 doctors, assisted by 40 medical staffs, headed by Dr. Kunal Gupte, an eminent Cardiac Surgeon of Nashik was the human resource backing the contingency plan. All personnel and vehicles were connected via an effective Wireless Walkie Talkie services.

Care Gujarat

One of the biggest earthquakes hit the western regions of India, Gujarat on 26th January 2001. The relief work was carried from 27th January to 14th February 2001. The efforts of volunteers in collection of the relief material, the Commitment of Bombay Marketing Pvt. Ltd. and grass root volunteers was commendable. Distribution of the relief materials in Gujarat was done by Lions Club International and Bharat Sevashram Sangha. A 24 hour collection center was setup at Sable Waghire & Co. Ltd., Chembur. Collection from all over Mumbai, items like clothes, food grains, milk powder, medicines, utensils etc., were collected, sorted and packed in family packs i.e 2 Adults and 2 Children. Transportation to Gujrat was arranged by ORPAT International. The disaster management plan was a success because the distribution of the materials was articulately conducted by Bharat Sevashram Sangha, an NGO widely spread over Gujarat.
